

Focus on Fire Safety

FEMA

U.S. Fire Administration

Wildfires

More and more people are making their homes in woodland settings—in or near forests, rural areas, or remote mountain sites. There, homeowners enjoy the beauty of the environment but face the very real danger of wildfire.

Every year across our Nation, after a major wildfire, some homes survive—while many others do not. Those that survive almost always do so because their owners had prepared for the eventuality of fire, which is an inescapable force of nature in fire-prone wildland areas.

Said in another way—if it's predictable, it's preventable!

For information and resources on this subject visit www.usfa.dhs.gov/citizens/focus